

WHEREABOUTS OF HINCHLIFFE AND PLANE STILL SHROUDED IN MYSTERY; NO WORD OF HIM AFTER HAVING BEEN GONE 58 HOURS

NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—At 12.35 this afternoon no word had yet been received of the British aviator, Captain L. R. Hinchcliffe, and his companion, Honorable Elsie Mackay, who on Tuesday left England enroute to the United States. Fifty-eight hours have elapsed since the ship commenced its trip. There was sufficient fuel aboard to last 50 hours.

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—Elsie Mackay, pretty, steel-nerved daughter of an English lord, and Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, who brought down seven enemy planes during the war and lost an eye doing it, have met the tragic fate of Nungesser and Gollé, and other brave souls who essayed a westward flight across the Atlantic Ocean, in the opinion of almost everybody who have been waiting word of them for hours.

Hope that Miss Mackay and Capt. Hinchcliffe are alive was practically abandoned this morning when the falsity of numerous vague reports that they had been sighted was established. One report said a plane which might have been Hinchcliffe's had been forced down near St. John, New Brunswick, and a few others equally vague. These reports served to buoy hopes of the watchers, but that was all.

At 9.00 o'clock this morning, fifty-four hours had passed since the take-off and at that hour nothing bearing definite confirmation that the plane had crossed the Atlantic had been received. No exact and definite sighting off and at that hour nothing bearing had succeeded in crossing the Atlantic had been received. No exact and definite sighting of Hinchcliffe's Stinson-Detrolter monoplane endeavor, attempting a flight England to America has been made.

BLOOMS BUDDING FOR PHILA. FLOWER SHOW

Display at The Commercial Museum March 19th To 24th

PROFUSION A FEATURE

Buds are ripened on thousands of flower plants that were set out weeks ago in preparation for the Philadelphia Flower Show, and within a week or so they will burst forth in bloom. The floral display to which Philadelphians and people from many surrounding cities and towns look forward, will be held March 19 to 24, in the Philadelphia Commercial Museum building, Thirty-fourth street below Spruce.

It will be known as "The Flower Festival" this year, and will be in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. The Flower Festival is under the joint patronage of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and the Florists' Club of Philadelphia.

The Flower Festival will be more elaborate than ever. All the space in the vast Commercial Museum exhibition hall has been taken. The scene will be a veritable riot of color, showing all the hues that Nature can point upon her flower children.

There will be a number of new flowers shown this year, both hybrid products and man's ingenuity in cultivation and strangers from other climes. The show will truly be educational, not only to the professional flower grower and the horticulturist, but to every lover of flowers, no matter how untutored in floriculture. Roses, hyacinths, tulips, snapdragons, lilies, begonias, azaleas, carnations, orchids and many others will be shown.

Not only will the profusion be a feature, but the exhibitors are striving to outdo each other in ingenuity and novelty in arrangements. Gardens will be laid out in various picturesque ways. Professional rivalry not alone spurs on the designers, but there are prizes for originality and beauty in design and display. Prizes also go to exhibitors of fine and rare varieties of flowers.

More than $25,000 in prizes will be offered for exhibits. There will be classes for private growers, who are the owners of large estates in and around Philadelphia, the exhibits being prepared by the horticulturists and head gardeners on these estates. Many owners of horticultural collections will participate, including Joseph E. Widener, Jr., F. Eugene Dixon, William duPont, Louis Burk, C. Hartman Kuhn. There will be a large display of orchids from these estates, many plants being worth thousands of dollars.

There will be special classes for women and also for garden clubs and for gardens prepared by school children. Special prizes will be given to exhibitors of entire gardens, covering not less than a thousand square feet.

An interesting exhibit will be an old fashioned garden of the year 1828, which is the date of foundation of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. James Boyd, president of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, heads the Flower Festival organization and William A. Geiger, of North Wales, Pa., is chairman of the committee actively preparing the show. William Kleinheinz is chairman of the Committee on Private Growers; William K. Harris, chairman of Committee on Commercial Growers; Mark P. Mills, on exhibits of retail dealers, Fred Michell, Jr., on Participation of Garden Clubs and William Graham is exhibition manager.

NATTY ATTIRE OF PRESIDING JUSTICE "ED" LYNN CAUSES KNOTTY PROBLEM FOR THOSE TRYING TO KEEP KNOBBY PACE

"Soup and Fish" Costume Causes Considerable Comment — Although Appearing in Evening Attire Nifty Theatre Manager is Lenient and Makes No Extra Charge

HAS Bristol progressed? Yes—we'll say she has! When a committing justice of the peace who passes judgment upon those accused of deviating from the straight and narrow path sits upon his judicial rostrum, clothed in the costume befitting a ball room, rather than the sombre plain black robes of the unique distinction of being the only justice of the peace in the State of Pennsylvania who performs his official duties as such wearing a "soup and fish."

Mr. Lynn is operator for the State Censorship Board for moving pictures; is manager of Bristol's beautiful playhouse, The Grand; and also holds the office of "squire—but not of the fitting specie."

Squire Lynn's many duties often press him for time. If he had to attire himself each time he performed his duties he was to perform it would be necessary for him to have a corps of valets. There are frequent occasions when he slips away from his managerial duties at the theatre to preside in the office of the justice of the peace in Bristol's new municipal building. He does not take the time to change his attire, and as a consequence appears in striking contrast to those who cringe before him awaiting the justice which is to be meted out.

"Ed," despite his aristocratic attire, is not a high-hat justice. He does not impose any additional cost for thus appearing. In fact many have marvelled at his leniency, especially those who have stood before magistrates in other communities who were not nearly so sartorially vested.

Considering the fact that Justice Lynn officiates mostly at evening hearings his garment may be considered more or less befitting the occasion.

Squire Lynn has performed marriage ceremonies by authority vested in the office which he holds, but since he has adopted the new judicial outfit not a single couple embarking upon the sea of matrimony has appeared before him to be joined in wedlock. Whether this is due to a natural shyness on the part of the prospective groom, thinking that perhaps his own attire would be somewhat subdued by that of the officiating justice, it is unable to judge at this time.

judiciary, we'll say that community has progressed.

Believe it or not this is what is happening in Bristol.

Edward Lynn, the man of many duties, has achieved, it is believed, the

SECOND BRIDGE BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 15.—The Senate bill to grant consent for construction of a bridge at Burlington, N. J., across the Delaware river to Bristol, Pa., was passed by the House yesterday. This is the bill which was introduced by a Pittsburgh group. It now goes to the President for his signature.

The bill presented on behalf of Joseph R. Cheesman, Burlington, and Clifford L. Anderson, of Bristol, has passed both the Senate and the House and been signed by the President.

Plans under this latter bill have been revised and submitted to the War Department.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Mar. 15.—Members of the Burlington Kiwanis Club Tuesday placed themselves squarely back of the Burlington-Adopted Bridge. Not only was a motion adopted pledging the support of the organization to Joseph R. Cheesman and Clifford Anderson, the promoters of the much-needed structure, but Senator Edge and Congressman Bacharach were commended.

Action was taken at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club in the Masonic Hall, West Union street. It was one of the most constructive moves yet made by the civic organization, and reflected the meaning of the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," in every sense the term implies.

The Kiwanians got busy when Samuel Denison, manager of the Prudential Insurance Company, in this city, introduced the Burlington-Bristol Bridge question and declared with considerable emphasis that the club should get back of the structure and help the promoters to bring it to a successful issue for the good of Burlington and Bristol, for the good of intercity business and for the greater accommodation and comfort of the people.

FATHER AND SON JUST MISS DEATH IN UPSET TRUCK

County Fire Marshal Stackhouse and Son Sustain Injuries

SLID DOWN 20-FT. BANK

Truck Turned Over And Landed Wheels in The Air

(Special to Courier)

HULMEVILLE, Mar. 15.—Dropping over a 20-foot embankment near the tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at South Langhorne in a loaded truck last night, County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse and his son, Wardell, 13, had a narrow escape from serious injury or possible death.

The father and son were rushed to the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., following the accident, where they still remain under treatment. The elder Stackhouse was severely cut about the nose and face, and complained of pain about the ribs; while Wardell sustained cuts on the leg and lip. Both received numerous bruises.

The escape of the two was pronounced as miraculous by those who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident. From what could be gleaned by the description from the two concerned and those first reaching the scene, the driver, Mr. Stackhouse, was partially blinded by lights of an approaching car as he started to drive his truck, loaded with lumber, over a wooden bridge that spans the railroad tracks. The vehicle slipped backward and swerving to the left went down a 20-foot embankment, turning over in the air three times. The machine landed in a field near the South Langhorne Casino, with the wheels in the air, and the two pinned underneath in the cab. When assistance arrived they were loosed from their position, and taken to the Trenton hospital by J. Hibbs Buckman.

The lumber, which was being delivered to a party in Parkland, was scattered about the meadow; the cab was demolished and steering wheel broken. The machine was later towed to Hulmeville. The accident occurred shortly after seven o'clock.

Friends of Stackhouse are mystified as to the cause of the accident. It is reasoned by them that if the lights of a passing motorist did blind Stackhouse said motorist must have been unmindful of the fate of Stackhouse and continued on his way.

When Stackhouse was seen by his wife in the Trenton hospital last night he was partly under the influence of ether and was scarcely able to converse with her. He told his wife between gasps that it appeared as though he and his son were beneath the truck an hour before anyone came. "We called for help for what seemed like a long time before anyone came. Then they all came at once."

THE DEBATORS

With the entrance of Bristol High School students into the debating league which is composed of four high schools in the county, another opportunity is offered scholars here.

Debates are not new, of course, to Bristol pupils, but the participation in the contests which will take place from time to time, will give them wider scope for their efforts and talents.

When inter-class debates are held the parents and members of the class are keenly interested, but frequently the public does not avail itself of the opportunity of showing sympathy and interest.

With the contests between scholars of four high schools, with a bronze plaque at stake, the entire communities from which the students come cannot help but manifest feeling in the matter. The scheduled debate will be talked about for some time before the set evening, and then for days after. The students of the various schools which are members of the league will put more zeal and inspiration into their preparation, with the result that the contest will be set on a higher plane.

The subjects chosen are bound to be more intriguing, and will provoke more thought and brain exercise. The battles of words will be uplifting mentally, and will aid rather than retard the pupils' scholastic progress.

It now behooves the townspeople, since the boys and girls have taken the lead in the four places, to take the next step—that of cooperating to the extent of attending the functions in which the scholars will star as they discuss a variety of subjects.

RETURNING NORMALCY

Back in the days when the country had been wearied to exhaustion by the clamor of reservationists and anti-reservationists and countless other after-the-war tinpan beaters, Thomas R. Marshall, then vice-president by the grace of a beneficent Providence, summed up the situation in these simple but pregnant words: What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar.

The post-war political tumult and shouting died down. But the restless spirit of revolt lodged in the female of the species and still lingers in a monotony of twinkling knees, boyish bobs, plucked eyebrows, gaudy checks of spotty inconsistency and lips as gory of hue as the horrendous gash Brutus made in Caesar. One walks the streets in a turbulence of shutting knees, knees, knees, eyes assailed by eccentricities of rag, a travesty of comeliness. More than ever this country needs a good five-cent cigar or what have you?

But even as the excitement over the Fourteen Points has spent its fury may it not be that the restless sex will simmer down, sense the monotony of playing a little tune with all the stops out and the loud pedal down and resume a reasonable moderation? Indeed, there are right now hopeful signs of returning normalcy.

It is usually considered some accomplishment to persuade a tightwad to loosen up.

It usually discourages a young man when a girl insists on being positive in her negative.

There is no sign that anyone is ever going to be able to invent a tire patch that will keep air in over inflation.

KS BRAVES ARE BEST BET FOR 1928

Editor's Note: This is the third series of articles by Davis J. Walsh, dealing with developments in the training camps of major league ball clubs. Other articles in the series will follow.

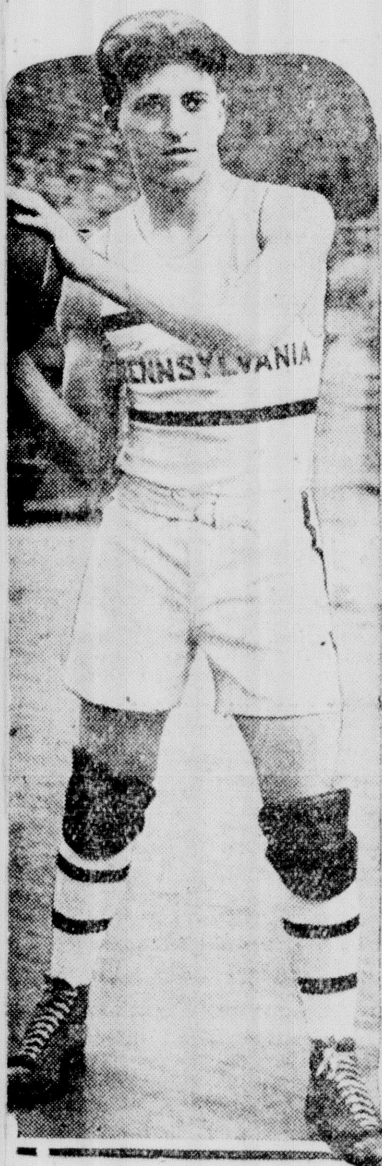

By Davis J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sports Editor

PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 15.—A lilac time in the old dressing and a goodly crowd was there; a goodly aroma and it wasn't spirits of rubbing alcohol. No, rubinot; you simply must be careful. You have the wrong one. The one we want is permeated with a faint but intriguing scent of cut violets. Violets for ship, I think the saying is.

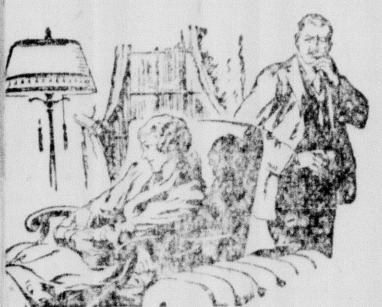

Now, I wish to announce on the authority that today the Boston Braves are obtained waivers on Damon Pythias. They were a worthy to have around and everybody is a good word for them. But base is a cold-blooded game and the of the matter is that the boys aren't needed any more. This is it is intimated, intend to rethem with a couple of new men and Hornsby and Slattery.

It is the same Rogers Hornsby struck up such intimate, cord friendships with Branch Rickey Sam Brandon, in St. Louis and Charley Stoneham in New York. hat is something with which Jack ery, new Boston manager, con himself slightly. As far as he ncered, Hornsby is the greatest he ever handled tractable, amen a great hustler who inspires one with his urge to win and by Schaaf, left guard of the university of Pennsylvania basketball team, has scored 104 points in ague games and is leading scorer the Intercollegiate Basketball ague. He is on his way to set new record for high scoring in o league.

altogether an admirable young man. Of course, he thinks the Braves are a better bet for 1928, and he has two reasons for so feeling. The other one is that the left field fence at Boston will be 79 feet and the right field fence 9 feet nearer the plate this year. This sounds like a lot of her- ingbone to a man on a limb but Slattery was playing the "straight man" when he said it. He figures that a club taking part in 77 games under these conditions can't help but hit better than it did.

Frankly, the Braves would seem to be no worse than the best of the potential second division clubs and they have at least an outside chance of finishing fourth. Hornsby has done that to them, or most of it, for the club has undergone few changes otherwise.

It will have the same man at first base, Dick Burrus; the same shortstop, Farrell; the same third baseman, Andy High, and virtually the same pitchers. The outfielders, Eddie Brown, Lance Richbourg and Jack Smith, will be operating again, the only departure being effected in the case of Eddie Moore. The Atlanta citizen will be removed from the infield altogether to share left field with Smith, provided he doesn't take the play away from the latter altogether, which he is likely to do. Moore came up to the Pirates as an outfielder and Slattery thinks somebody muffed one when they didn't keep Edward there.

Burrus had a bad year at first base in 1927 but Slattery thinks the young man wasn't sufficiently encouraged or something. High at third is a robust hitter but, unfortunately, also a robust fielder. He sometimes can kick them very far. Walter Gantreau is giving contest to Andrew at the position but altogether it is one of two points that the Braves feel none too certain about.

The other is catching. Here Zack Taylor has come back from the Giants to take command but he may need help and he may not get too much. The second catcher is Luke Urban, former Boston College athlete. The contest for third man lies between Bill Cronin, of Providence, and E. B. Williams, of Asheville, with neither favored to date.

Pitching will be a big number at Braves Field with Johnny Cooney, Kent Greenfield, Foster Wards, Joe Genewich, Charley Robertson, Bob Smith and Henry Wertz, of last year's staff, again available. Cooney has a bad arm and it may never be good again, but the rest of them are above suspicion.

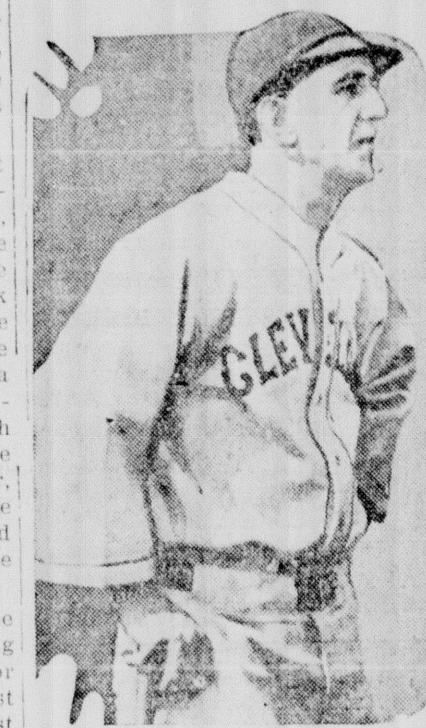

Electric Refrigeration Installation Increases

More electric refrigerators will be installed in 1928 than in any previous year in the history of the business, according to C. W. Winter, local Frigidaire dealer who has returned from a regional convention of Frigidaire Corporation held recently in New York. At this convention Mr. Winter saw new household models exhibited for the first time and inspected a new electric water cooler that has been added to the Frigidaire line.

Twenty executives of Frigidaire Corporation were in attendance at the convention, which was one of a series of eight held by the corporation during the month of February. The convention was the most enthusiastic in the history of the organization, Mr. Winter declared. Facts presented at the meeting, he said, clearly indicated that 1928 will see more Frigidaire installed than in any previous year in the organization's history.

"A very interesting act brought out at the convention was that Frigidaire is being installed in all types of homes," said Mr. Winter. "In 1927, fully one-fourth of the equipment sold on extended payments was purchased by families having an annual income of $2,000 or less, it was stated. This clearly indicates that modern refrigeration is now well within the reach of the purchasing ability of the average home."

Charts, playlets and various other forms of instruction were used at the convention in presenting various points of Frigidaire superiority, including designing, engineering, appearance and cost of operation. The convention was ended with a banquet in the evening at which a number of unusual entertainment features were presented.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 999-1810 N. Mutes Booked To Play Bristol High Tomorrow

By T. M. Juno

Tomorrow night in the high school "gym" Bristol High basketball teams play the New Jersey School for Deaf. This is the final home game and possibly the finale of the season and will start at a rather unusual time, 7 p. m. instead of 8 p. m. as all the other games started.

The game should prove fast and very interesting as to the fact that the deaf mutes depend mostly upon their mates cutting for the baskets. The inability to hear does not handicap the mutes from playing good and clean basketball. The Jersey school has made it a habit of winning from Bristol and last year trounced the locals to a 40-27 score.

FOOD GROWS HAIR ON BALD HEADS

Scientists have found that baldness comes from lack of necessary food elements that the human hair requires. "Foods found in Mother Earth grow, nourish and retain hair," says P. A. Thomas, 1178 America Fore Building, Chicago, the world's leading hair specialist who operates over 40 treatment offices in the United States and Canada. He further states that hair roots always stay alive and that in 85% of cases where hair is falling or baldness has set in, a growth of new hair can be had in a short time by following his simple directions. He will gladly explain his method without cost to those interested in restoring or saving their hair. Write him today.—(Adv.)

Coach Townsend expects things to turn his way this year and has had stiff work-outs throughout the week.

Captain "Whitey" Opdyke will be pivot man in tomorrow's fray. "Oil" Wright and "Les" Strumfels will be the forwards, while "Gene" Spadacino and "Mike" DeRisi will be in the back court.

The girls' game should be very interesting as the rivalry between the two teams always furnished a hard battle. Last year Bristol won a close victory. Bristol females' record is thirteen victories and two reverses on the defense.

McFadden and Rockhill will be in the scoring positions. Pierce and Strumfels will be center and side-centers, while Praul and Giagnacova will be lefts will be center and side-center.
